Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. The invention relates to a weighing machine with a central distributor, linear conveyors, a vibrator, spring elements and a counterweight as defined in the preamble of claim 1.
Main characteristic of the weighing machine according to claim 1 is that the spring elements suspending the conveyor ducts are directly mounted on the frame structure of the weighing machine, whereby the frame structure forms the counterweight for each conveyor duct.
Such a construction, which is both simple and easy to be cleaned, is not known nor suggested by the prior art documents cited in the search report. More specific, in these prior art documents the springs suspending the conveyor ducts are not attached to the frame directly, but to an intermediate base, which forms a counterweight. The intermediate base on its turn is attached to the frame of the machine via springs.
Therefore the subject-matter of claim 1 meets the requirements of articles 33 (2) and 33 (3) PCT.
2. Claims 2-9 are dependent on claim 1 and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.

Additional remarks

1. Claim 1 is not clear (Article 6 PCT), because different wordings, namely "transport duct" and "conveyor duct" seem to be used to denote the same part. A uniform wording should have been used, also in the dependent claims.
2. The features of the claims have not been provided with reference signs placed in parentheses (Rule 6.2(b) PCT).
3. Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in the documents cited in the search report is not mentioned in the description, nor are these documents identified therein.
